Memorandum

To: Wesleyan faculty
From: Antonio González
Re: Exchange - Wesleyan-Social Sciences in China Press
Date: March 10, 2016

Dear colleagues,

We are writing to solicit applications from Wesleyan faculty interested in spending time between June 15, 2016 and June 30, 2017 in Beijing, China, under the auspices of an exchange accord with the Social Sciences in China Press. Although the purpose and length of stay are flexible, applications will be judged on the merits of their rationale. Those interested should send a letter by April 15 communicating your desire to be considered and explaining how this experience will contribute to your professional development. Please send your letter to studyabroad@wesleyan.edu and include SSCP exchange in the subject heading.

Our contacts at the SSCP in Beijing will provide logistical support for the Wesleyan professor chosen for this exchange. They will assist in the procurement of a visa, finding housing, and provide a shared or single office with computer and phone line. They will also enable fellows to access the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences library and other resources and to participate in CASS academic activities. Since the award is unfunded, applicants may want to investigate potential opportunities for financial support from other sources, including Academic Affairs and the Center for Global Studies.

Please do not hesitate to contact me should you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Antonio
