Welcome Incoming Wesleyan Students!

The University’s Alcohol and Other Drug Committee is unveiling a new blog called “Know Your Rights and Responsibilities”. The focus of the blog is to give students access to important health, safety and policy information about alcohol and at the same time list activities for students who may choose not to drink. The blog will be distributed electronically throughout the academic year prior to large scale events where alcohol is served and likely to be a major focus. We hope you find the blog a useful tool for making healthy decisions around alcohol.
