

The (pre) Writing Process

1: Remember how great you are.

You can do this! Feeling overwhelmed is a part of the process. Just take a deep breath.

You got it.

3: Now think. What needs to be included in this paper? If you're an outline person, you can do that too! What kind of organization would best fit for this essay?

2: Just get some thoughts on the page! Starting is often the hardest part. So just throw some keywords down, even if it's just feelings. Don't even worry about your final draft right now.

4: Now check your sources. Do you have everything you need to write this paper? Do you need to clarify the prompt or any concerns you have? Be sure to clear this up before you start!

5: Remember! The most important thing is that you believe you can do this. Don't be afraid to ask for support. We've got you!
