

CSS MONDAY LUNCH TALKS

FALL 2022

- September 12 CSS Seniors:
Sofia Aslan, Shaoxuan (Xuan) Tian, Alex Trufinescu, and Robyn Wong Min Xuan
Summer Research Presentations
- September 19 Erin Boggs, CSS '93, Executive Director, Open Communities Alliance
"Can We Realize the Dream of the Fair Housing Act? Strategies for Unwinding the History of Housing Segregation"
- September 26 Caleb Zakarin, CSS '20, Assistant Editor of New Books Network
"How to Use the Internet to Improve Your Senior Thesis"
- October 3 Avner Shavit, Center for Jewish Studies, Silverberg Scholar in Residence, Wesleyan
"The French National Soccer Team: How Trevor Noah Got Into a Feud with the French Ambassador to the States because of the World Cup?"
- October 10 Olena Lennon, Practitioner in Residence of National Security, Univ. of New Haven
"Russia's War against Ukraine: What to Expect from a New Turning Point"
- October 17 Dan Ho Sang, Wes '93, Associate Professor of Ethnicity, Race & Migration and American Studies, Yale University
"A Wider Type of Freedom: Race and the Crisis of Liberalism"
- October 31 Minami Tsubouchi, Maurice R Greenberg World Fellow, Yale University &
Founder, BEYOND Tomorrow
"Youth Leadership in the Face of Catastrophes - Adversity Makes Great Leaders"
- November 7 Kirsten Rulf, Maurice R Greenberg World Fellow, Yale University & Head of Division for General Digital Policy Issues, Federal Chancellery of Germany
"Europe in Crisis - Is the EU an Effective Superpower?"
- November 14 Cliff Chanin, Wes '75, Deputy Director of the 9/11 Museum in NYC
"Why 9/11?"
- November 28 Samuel Zeitlin, Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science, Colgate University
"Enframing the Historical: On Stefan Ruzowitzky's The Counterfeiters, Die Fälscher (2007)"
- December 5 Miriam Berger, CSS '12, Writer for the Washington Post
"Lessons from Covering the Iran Uprising and Other International Stories"