shall be subject to the provisions of this section.

(12) Records of each employer shall maintain records of wages paid to each employee in his employ, showing the following information with respect to each such employee: (a) total wages paid, (b) the number of hours worked by each such employee, and (c) the rate or rates at which such wages were paid. The provisions of this subsection shall apply to all employees, including the employees of Federal agencies, States, political subdivisions of States, and all instrumentalities of States.

Sec. 31-31-12. Records. - For the purposes of this regulation, "employee" means an individual who is employed by an individual or a partnership, corporation, business association, or any other organization, does not receive payment for subsequent employment, and whose services are performed directly by the employer or his employee in any occupation in addition to his regular duties.

(1) For the purpose of this regulation, "employee" means an individual who is employed by an individual or a partnership, corporation, business association, or any other organization, does not receive payment for subsequent employment, and whose services are performed directly by the employer or his employee in any occupation in addition to his regular duties.

(2) For the purposes of section 31-31-8 of the Connecticut General Statutes, any employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total hours worked by such employee are recorded in such a manner that the total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour shall be deemed to be an employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour.

(3) For the purposes of section 31-31-8 of the Connecticut General Statutes, any employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour shall be deemed to be an employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour.

(4) For the purposes of section 31-31-8 of the Connecticut General Statutes, any employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour shall be deemed to be an employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour.

(5) For the purposes of section 31-31-8 of the Connecticut General Statutes, any employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour shall be deemed to be an employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour.

(6) For the purposes of section 31-31-8 of the Connecticut General Statutes, any employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour shall be deemed to be an employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour.

(7) For the purposes of section 31-31-8 of the Connecticut General Statutes, any employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour shall be deemed to be an employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour.

(8) For the purposes of section 31-31-8 of the Connecticut General Statutes, any employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour shall be deemed to be an employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour.

(9) For the purposes of section 31-31-8 of the Connecticut General Statutes, any employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour shall be deemed to be an employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour.

(10) For the purposes of section 31-31-8 of the Connecticut General Statutes, any employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour shall be deemed to be an employee who is employed at an hourly rate and whose total wages paid to such employee and the total number of hours worked by such employee can be determined to the nearest one\(\frac{1}{8}\) of one hour.