Course Description:
Who determines what is true and worth knowing? How has the construction of knowledge and academic traditions from across the globe been impacted by such phenomena as (post)modernity, (neo)colonialism, and (neo)liberalism? Why do any of the questions above matter to your own personal history, beliefs, and identity? This course will provide a space for students to critically examine the history and development of the discourses that have shaped their educational experiences and their understanding of the purpose of education. The first half of the course will focus on texts and assignments that interrogate how some of our modern epistemological discourses were formed and maintained through the lens of postcolonial studies and critical educational studies.

The second half of the course will center on ways people have worked within these dominant modes of thought to resist hegemonic modern discourses that privileges logical positivism, quantification, objectivism, and Western European histories and ideologies above all else. This coursework will involve reflection essays on class lectures and readings due before the class starts on Jan. 4th. The synchronous coursework will include intergroup dialogue and group activities that will encourage students to examine their own connection to the theoretical concepts presented in the lectures and homework assignments. The culminating project/final will be a scholarly personal narrative wherein students will synthesize both what they learned about themselves and the content that was presented during the course.

Course Objectives:

- Understand how historical discourses such as (post)modernity, (neo)colonialism, and (neo)liberalism has impacted our current conceptions of education and knowledge
- Evaluate evidence within one’s own educational experiences as well as within the class readings that supports/contradicts postcolonial concepts such as decolonization and liberation
- Gain experience and familiarity with different ways that people have conceptualized knowledge and education from different social positionalities
- Develop historical and theoretical background to participate intelligently in current debates related to how power, privilege, and oppression impacts our conceptions of truth and what is worth knowing

Course Requirements and Grading:

- Attendance and class participation (35%)
  - Dialogue will be an essential component to the learning objectives of the course.
    - We will meet for 10 classes (from Jan. 4th - Jan. 17th, 5:10pm-9:20pm, 10 minute break at 7:30pm)
    - Each class will consist of dialogue and group activities based on the readings and assignments
    - Students must complete watch the lecture and do the readings before each corresponding class
  - Requirements
    - Students must notify the professor no later than 24 hours before a class if they are unable to attend class due to a personal emergency and/or sickness. If an emergency presents itself on the day of class, the student has until the end of that day to contact their professor detailing the emergency if they would like to have that absence excused.
Students are only allowed two excused absences during the course of a semester. If the student requires more than two excused absences, accommodations must be arranged through the student’s class dean to verify the issue and identify workarounds.

Rubric for attendance and class participation

- 5- The student attends and participates as they are able in every class. Participation includes actively listening and responding to the experiences and thoughts of others during class as well as actively adding to the dialogue space by sharing reflections on the topic. The student recognizes that a significant portion of their learning is connected to how they actively share their perceptions, experiences, concerns, (mis)understandings and personal connections with others during the class. It is evident through how they participate in class that the student challenges themselves to be critically self-reflective, non-judgmental, and open to imperfection.

- 4- The student attends and participates as they are able in most classes. Participation includes actively listening and responding to the experiences and thoughts of others during class as well as actively adding to the dialogue space by sharing reflections on the topic. The student sometimes shares their perceptions, experiences, concerns, (mis)understandings and personal connections with others during the class. The student values being critically self-reflective, non-judgmental, and open to imperfection.

- 3- The student attends and participates as they are able in some classes. Participation includes actively listening and responding to the experiences and thoughts of others during class as well as actively adding to the dialogue space by sharing reflections on the topic. The student seldom shares their perceptions, experiences, concerns, (mis)understandings and personal connections with others during the class. Sometimes it is evident that the student values being critically self-reflective, non-judgmental, and open to imperfection.

- Needs Improvement- The student’s attendance and participation in class is inconsistent. The student does not challenge themselves to be critically self-reflective, non-judgmental, or open to imperfection.

Homework assignments (35%)

- There will be response/reflection papers due at the beginning of the course in addition to in-class and out of class activities that will further students’ content mastery. You should complete the assignments in the following progression:
- Class 1 and 2 Response Reflection due on Thursday, Jan. 7th at 12noon (link)
- Dialogue partner reflection essay (pt. 1) due on Sunday, Jan. 9th at 12noon (link)
- Class 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 Response Reflection due on Thursday, Oct. 13th at 12noon (link)
- Old assignment essay due on Sunday, Jan. 16th at 12noon (link)
- Self-Grading Rubric and Reflection due on Tuesday, Jan. 18th at 12noon (link)
- All readings and assignments will be shared through a class google team drive (link)
- All homework assignments should be submitted to the professor by creating a google drive folder and sharing it with your professor
  - Once you have uploaded your assignment into the folder, email your professor/share the link to submit it.
- Rubric for homework assignments
  - 5- The student responded well to all of the assignment prompt(s). The student showcases a clear understanding of the main arguments in the texts and intentionally places their own personal experiences (i.e. thoughts, feelings, behaviours, misconceptions, etc.) in conversation with the perspectives of the authors. There is a clear intention to go beyond shallow connections and truly discover/uncover/reveal something to and for themselves. The student takes the time and effort to challenge their own arguments and perceptions and reflect on why they are interpreting the authors' texts in a particular way and the potential implications of their beliefs. The student incorporates information from the supplemental readings and sources not provided by the professor (such as readings from previous classes, current events and news articles, family stories, personal history, memes and social media, wikipedia) to deepen their understanding of the context and implications of the authors' text and their own experiences/beliefs. The student connects their own interpretations and arguments to the course objectives and how the course is impacting their own development. The assignment was turned in on time.
  - 4- The student responded well to some of the assignment prompt(s). The student showcases an understanding of the main arguments in the texts this week and intentionally places their own personal experiences (i.e. thoughts, feelings, behaviours, misconceptions, etc.) in conversation with the perspectives of the authors. The student takes the time and effort to make sure that their thoughts are clearly ordered and communicated. The assignment was turned in on time or at least one week after the original due date.
3- The student responded to the assignment prompt(s). The student showcases that they have read some of the readings and have an opinion about what they have read. They turned the assignment in and met all basic requirements about the length and content of the assignment

- Needs improvement- the response to the texts were incoherent and/or very little to no personal connections to the arguments made were present

- Incomplete- student did not turn in the assignment

○ Extension Policy
- If you need an extension on an assignment, you must email the professor at least 24 hours before the assignment due date explaining what is preventing you from completing the assignment on time.
- Since all the homework assignments have to be done in a sequence by the end of the month before you can start the Spring semester, extensions can only be granted up to 4 days after the original deadline

● Final project (30%)
- The final project will be a scholarly personal narrative that will enable participants to synthesize the course content with their own lived experiences
  - Scholarly Personal Narrative due on Friday, January 21st at 12noon (link)

○ Rubric for final project
- 5- The student responded well to all of the assignment prompt(s). The student takes the time and effort to challenge their own arguments and perceptions and reflect on why they are interpreting the authors' texts in a particular way and the potential implications of their beliefs. The student incorporates information from the supplemental readings and sources not provided by the professor (such as readings from previous classes, current events and news articles, family stories, personal history, memes and social media, wikipedia) to deepen their understanding of the context and implications of their arguments and reflections. The student connects their own interpretations and arguments to the course objectives, class texts, and how the course is impacting their own development. The assignment was turned in on time.

- 4- The student responded well to some of the assignment prompt(s). The student takes the time and effort to make sure that their thoughts are clearly ordered and communicated. The assignment was turned in on time or at least one week after the original due date.
3- The student responded to the assignment prompt(s). The student showcases that they have read some of the readings and have an opinion about what they have read. They turned the assignment in and met all basic requirements about the length and content of the assignment

Needs improvement- The student didn’t adequately respond to the assignment prompt(s). The response to the texts were incoherent and/or very little to no personal connections to the arguments made were present

Incomplete- student did not turn in the assignment

Students with Disabilities  It is the policy of Wesleyan University to provide reasonable accommodations to students with documented disabilities. Students, however, are responsible for registering with Disabilities Services, in addition to making requests known to me in a timely manner. If you require accommodations in this class, please make an appointment with me as soon as possible [during the 2nd week of the semester], so that appropriate arrangements can be made. The procedures for registering with Disabilities Services can be found at http://www.wesleyan.edu/studentaffairs/disabilities/index.html

Wesleyan University is committed to ensuring that all qualified students with disabilities are afforded an equal opportunity to participate in and benefit from its programs and services. To receive accommodations, a student must have a documented disability as defined by Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the ADA Amendments Act of 2008, and provide documentation of the disability. Since accommodations may require early planning and generally are not provided retroactively, please contact Disability Resources as soon as possible. If you believe that you need accommodations for a disability, please contact Dean Patey in Disability Resources, located in North College, Room 021, or call 860-685-2332 for an appointment to discuss your needs and the process for requesting accommodations.
